

Vermont Real Estate Commission Mandatory Consumer Disclosure

(This is not a Contract)

This mandatory disclosure shall be given to the consumer at the first reasonable opportunity, and must be given to the consumer before discussion of confidential information; entering into a service agreement; or showing a property. Berkley & Veller Greenwood Country Realtors represents both sellers and buyers but never both in the same transaction. If a buyer client expresses interest in one of our listings, we cannot represent them on that property and will be representing the seller's interest, we can still offer customer level services.

Right Now You Are A Customer

As a customer, the real estate agent with whom you are working is not obligated to keep confidential the information that you might share with him or her. As a customer, you should not reveal any confidential information that could harm your bargaining position.

Vermont law requires all agents to perform basic duties when dealing with a buyer or seller. You can expect the agent with whom you deal to provide the following services whether you are a Customer or a Client:

- To disclose all material facts pertaining to the property known to the agent.
- To treat both the buyer and seller honestly and not knowingly give false or misleading information.
- To account for all money and property received from or on behalf of the buyer or seller.
- To comply with all state and federal laws related to the practice of real estate.

You May Become A Client

Whether you are selling or buying, clients receive more services than customers. You become a client by entering into a written contract with a real estate brokerage firm. All agents in the firm work for you.

In addition to the services noted in the left hand column, as a client you can expect the following services:

- Confidentiality, including bargaining information
- Promotion of your best interest within the limits of the law
- Advice and counsel
- Assistance in negotiations

Important Information
